Q: NO II. Ans: → Equality originated from the Latin word 'aequales' meaning level and equal. It is a principle where all men are equal because they are created by god and deserve equal rights and opportunities.

Different kinds of Equality

1. Social Equality: It means that all citizens enjoy equal status in society. There is no discrimination on the basis of caste, creed, colour etc. and all have an equal opportunity of development without having any special privileges.

2. Civil Equality: - All citizens are treated equally in the eyes of the law. All individuals - superior or inferior rich or poor etc. are all same under the rule of law.

3. Political Equality: - It guarantees the enjoyment of some political rights to all citizens. They enjoy adult franchise participation in the political affairs of the state etc.

4. Economic Equality: - All have equal chances of making economic progress and having equal share in the economic benefits and opportunities provided by the state.

Q: NOW Ans: → Features of Democracy

1. Democracy is a representative democracy where people choose their leaders through election.

2. Democracy is opposed to oppression. It is based on equality and freedom.

3. In democracy a government is formed through a good and written constitution.

4. Public opinion is always given importance in democracy.

5. In democracy, there is plurality of ideas and existence of multi-party system.

Q. 1/ What is Justice? Discuss different kinds of Justice & explain John Rawls' theory of Justice?

Word "Justice" is derived from Latin word 'Jus' which means Bond or tie. It means, Justice is that system where in all individuals are related to each other. Another point is that justice is not an independent concept. It is a relative concept, which is closely associated with religion, morality, liberty, equality, politics and economic system. The modern view of justice seeks to transform society built on the realization of certain values.

Numerous dimension of justice includes, legal, political, social, economic and socio-economic.

Legal Justice: Legal justice is related to the process of lawmaking and the judicial systems of society. It demands that law should be reasonable and everyone should get justice according to the law. The right to make law should be given only to the representative of the people. Law should be equal for all classes of people. In the liberal democracies, unjust laws may be reviewed by the independent and impartial judiciary. Legal Justice demands every individual should be able to have impartial justice under the existing judicial system. There should be equal protection of law. Legal Justice is broadly applied to two contexts:

- (A) Justice according to law.
- (B) Law according to justice.

Of the two views of legal justice, the view of Bentham is considered to be better. He deals with the concept of legal justice as law, according to justice and he draws a distinction between positive law and natural law. A good law is known by its efficiency in achieving justice.

Political Justice :

A specific use of the term political justice refers to the re-orientation of political institutions, political process and political rights according to the current conception of justice. Its features are:

- ① Establishment of a democratic order without any discrimination.
- ② Political equality.
- ③ One person - One vote.
- ④ Rule of law and not rule by peoples, whims.
- ⑤ Enactment of constitutional provisions.
- ⑥ Free press and rights.
- ⑦ Fair and impartial periodic elections.

Social Justice :

No person should be deprived of those social conditions which are essential for his development. The issue of social equality and social rights. There can be social justice only in that society where the exploitation of man by man is absent. The social dimension of justice reflects a just social society, its peculiarities would include -

- ① Elimination of all kinds of discrimination.
- ② Abolition of privileges based on caste, creed, race or sex.
- ③ Social roles to be determined by capacity.
- ④ Equality of each with each and of each with all.

(3)
③ Universal brotherhood.

④ It involves a logical synthesis of liberty, equality and brotherhood.

Economic Justice :

The economic dimension of justice attempts to discover justice in the economic structure of the society. It is viewed from two angles - The Liberals refer to the satisfaction of economic needs of the people in society as justice. The Marxist view is that economic justice prevails only after the abolition of private property. Its features are :-

① Wealth should not be concentrated in the hands of few persons.

② No discrimination should be made in distribution of wealth between the rich and poor.

③ Abolition of exploitation of man by man.

④ Social security in the event of accident, illness and old age.

⑤ Equal pay for equal work for both men and women.

Socio-economic justice :

The term 'Socio-economic Justice' comprehends two important elements - 'Social justice' and 'economic justice'. It implies that reordering of social life in such a manner that the material and moral benefits of social planning are not concerned by a tiny privileged class but accrue to the masses. This includes -

① Liberty of thought and expression etc.

② Special safeguards for minorities and weaker sections.

③ Establish a class-less society.

(1) Abilities be matched to work and with needs.

(2) An exploitation-free and oppression-free social order.

"A Theory of Justice" (1971) by John Rawls, is one of the most influential works in moral and political philosophy written in the 20th century. He writes in reaction to the then predominant theory of utilitarianism, which states that justice is defined by that which provides the greatest good for greatest number of people.

John Rawls suggests that social justice should be understood mean fairness. To him, justice is the first virtue of social institutions, as truth, is of systems of thought. He develops a Contractarian Theory of Justice in the tradition of Hobbes, Locke, and Rousseau. Since for Rawls, justice is the foundation of social structure.

John Rawls view on justice can best summed up in his own words by highlighting the following:

"First Principle" —

"Each person is to have an equal right to the most extensive total system of equal basic liberties compatible with a similar system of liberty for all."

"Second Principle" —

Social and economic inequalities are to be arranged so that they are both,

- (a) To be greatest benefits of the least advantaged - and
- (b) Attached to offices and positions open to all i.e., equality of opportunity.

First Priority Rule (The Priority of Liberty)

Liberty can be restricted only for the sake of liberty.

There are two cases:

- (a) A less extensive liberty must strengthen the total system of liberty shared by all.
- (b) A less than equal liberty must be acceptable to those with the lesser liberty.

Second Priority Rule (The Priority of justice over efficiency and welfare):

Rawls's conception of Justice demands,

- (1) The maximum liberty of the subject such constraint are essential for the protection of liberty.
- (2) Equality for all, both in the basic liberties of social life and distribution of all other forms of social goods.
- (3) Fair equality of opportunity and the elimination of all inequalities.

Rawls admits that all individuals are not equal in knowledge or socio-economic conditions. So, we may summarise Rawls theory of justice in such a way -

- (1) For Rawls, justice is fairness.
- (2) There is a fair system of co-operation in society.
- (3) To find out appropriate principles which help to realise liberty and equality.
- (4) Justice is the virtue of good society.
- (5) Justice demands the removal of inequalities in society.

⑥ Justice is just distribution of 'Primary goods' such as rights and liberties, power and opportunities, income and wealth. Rawls's theory of justice was well-timed. It was presented at a time when liberalism was becoming obsolete and was facing serious challenges. His theory of justice is indeed important as a defence of political liberalism.

3) Ans:— Maruf al-Rusafi (1875-1995)

Introduction:—

Maruf bin Abdul Ghani al Rusafi was a poet, educationist and literary scholar from Iraq. He is considered by many as a controversial figure in modern Iraqi literature due to his advocacy of freedom and opposition to imperialism and is known as a poet of freedom.

Student life:—

Maruf al-Rusafi was born in 1875 at Al Rusafa in Baghdad in Iraq. His father Abdul Gani was a Kurdish and mother Fathima was a Turkish. After early schooling at a local Madrasa he joined Al Rushdiyya Military School in Baghdad, but leaving this, later on, he continued his studies in Religion and Linguistics under an Arabic scholar, Shaikha Mahmud Shukri Al Alusi and stayed there for twelve years where he learnt sufism, Linguistics, Islamic principles and general sciences.

Working career: -

Rusafi passed most of his working life as a teacher or professor of Arabic in different schools and colleges in different places of the Arab land; such as, Al Rashad and as a member of the Turkish chamber of Deputies. In Jerusalem he met literary figures like Issaf Nashashibi, Adil Jabir, Khalil al-Sakakani and Nakhlati Zuraig, and got the opportunity to recite his poems at the gatherings and pursue his literary career. He started a newspaper, Al Amal in Baghdad. He also worked as a vice chairman of the committee for translation and arabization and as an inspector in the Directorate of Education. In 1930, he was elected to the parliament but continued his teaching job till 1937. He spent his last days in poverty, working in a tobacco shop in Baghdad. He died on 16 March 1945.

Theme and features of his writings:

Maruf Rusafi have used in his writing the social and political issues of the Middle East. His writings also are in commentaries on the ottoman period. He is regarded by many as the founder of the social school of poetry in Iraq. He is also known to have written in defence of women and widows and is seen as a strong advocate of education and knowledge. Some of his poems have been critical of the British occupation of Iraq.

Rusafi was a moderate in his religious beliefs and writing. He has written many pieces, one of which was important towards society and politics.

Maruf Rusafi was acquainted with western literature through Turkish translation and his writing career started while he was in Istanbul by way of socio political articles in journals such as Al Muqtataf and Al Muayyad, published from Syria and Egypt. Rusafi, who is credited with the adding ideas and values to modern Iraqi poetry, has written on a wide range of topics such as nationalism, society, politics and reforms. His first book of poetry, Al-Risala, was released in 1910. His contributions may be listed as:

1. Neolithic Culture (1)

Ans: - Neolithic

The Neolithic period is the first division of the Stone Age, with a wide-ranging set of developments that appear to have arisen independently in several parts of the world. It is first seen about 12,000 years ago when the first developments of farming appeared in the Epipaleolithic Near East, and later in other parts of the world. The Neolithic lasted (in the part of the world) until the transitional period of the Chalcolithic from about 6,500 years ago (4500 BC). Marked by the development of metallurgy, leading up to the Bronze Age and Iron Age. In other places the Neolithic followed the Mesolithic and then lasted until later. In Northern Europe, the Neolithic lasted until about 1700 BC, while in China it extended until 1000 BC. Other parts of the world (including Oceania and the northern regions of the Americas) remained broadly in the Neolithic stage of development until European contact.

The Neolithic introduced the Neolithic Revolution or "Neolithic package": comprising a progression of behavioural and culture characteristics and changes, above all the introduction of farming and use of domesticated animals.

The term Neolithics is modern, based on Greek νεολιθικός 'new' and λίθος 'stone'. Literally 'New Stone Age' the term was coined by Sir John Lubbock in 1865 as a refinement of the three-age system.

Following the ASPRO chronology, the Neolithic started in around 10,200 BC in the arising from the Natufian culture, when pioneering use of wild cereals evolved into early farming. The Natufian period or "proto-Neolithic" lasted from 12,500 to 9,500 BC, and it takes to overlap with the Pre-pottery Neolithic (PPNA) of 10,200-8800 BC. As the Natufians had become dependent on wild cereals in their diet, and a sedentary way of life had begun among them, the climatic changes associated with the Younger Dryas (about 10,000 BC) are thought to have forced people to develop farming.

By 10,200-8,800 BC farming was limited communities had arisen in the Levant and spread to Asia Minor. North Africa and North Mesopotamia Mesopotamia is the site of the earliest developments of the Neolithic Revolution from around 10,000 BC.

Early Neolithic farming was limited to a narrow range of plants, both wild and domesticated, which included einkorn, wheat, millet and spelt and the keeping of dogs.

By about 8000 BC, it included domesticated sheep and goats, cattle and pigs.

Not all of these cultural elements characteristic of the Neolithic appeared everywhere in the same order. the earliest farming societies in the Near East did not use pottery. In other parts of the world, such as Africa, South Asia and Southeast Asia, independent domestication events led to their own regionally distinctive Neolithic culture, which arose completely independently of those in Europe and Southwest Asia. Early Japanese societies and other East Asian cultures used pottery before developing agriculture.

Cultural characteristics

during most of the Neolithic age of Eurasia, people lived in small tribes composed of multiple bands or lineages. There is little scientific evidence of developed Social Stratification in most Neolithic societies. Social Stratification is more associated with the late Bronze Age. Although some late Eurasian Neolithic societies formed complex stratified chiefdoms or even states. Generally states and most Neolithic societies on the whole were relatively simple and egalitarian. Beyond Eurasia however, states were formed during the local Neolithic in three areas, namely the Preceramic Andes with the North American Civilization Formative Mesoamerican and Ancient Hawaii. However most Neolithic societies were noticeably more hiera-

-richer than the Upper Paleolithic cultures that preceded them and hunter-gatherer cultures in general.

The domestication of large animals (c. 8000 BC) resulted in a dramatic increase in social inequality in most of the areas where it occurred; New Guinea being a notable exception. Possession of livestock allowed competition between households and resulted in inherited inequalities of wealth. Neolithic pastoralists who controlled large herds gradually acquired more livestock and this made economic inequalities more pronounced. However evidence of social inequalities is still disputed. as egalitarian society with no evidence of the concept of capital, although some homes do appear slightly larger or more elaborately decorated than others.

(a) Ans William Blake's is the poet of the poem 'The Chimney Sweeper'.

(b) Ans Tom dactre was crying because his curled white hair, which he used to like a lot, was shaved and he was made bald.

(c) Ans Brainily in.

(d) Ans John Keats wrote 'Ode to Autumn'.

(a) Ans William Blake's poem 'The Chimney Sweeper' is about the exploitation of young children.

In the first poem of 'The Chimney Sweeper' the poetic persona a child says that after his mother passed away, his father sold him off and since then he has been sweeping chimneys. The poem centers round the idea that these children suffer day and night in the work place as well as in their place of dwelling. Through a dream of one of the - Sweepers - children. Tom Dacre, the narrator shows that these children do not have any freedom - to play or to have fun. They are free only in their dreams.

② Ans Ruskin Bond's short story 'The eyes are not here' is an ideal short story. It is short in length and can be easily finished in one go. It has a limited number of characters - the narrator who is a young man, the co-passenger of the narrator who is a young woman, the male co-passenger of the narrator and the parents of the young woman who came with her to see her off.

The plot of the story is this -

A young man is sitting in a compartment in a train when a young woman also enters the compartment. The woman does not notice that the man is blind and he does not tell her. -

- Instead he asks her a series of questions that allow him to infer certain facts about her. She also converses pleasantly with him. After she gets off the train at her stop, another male enters the compartment and mentions in passing that the young woman who just left the compartment was blind.

The short story 'The eyes are not here' by Ruskin Bond revolves around unfolding events in the compartment of a train during a particular journey. The story is narrated by the protagonist, blind man, who is travelling to 'Dehra' and then to 'Mussoorie'. A large part of the story is dedicated to a girl who enters the protagonist's compartment in Rohana. Prior to this, the protagonist has had the compartment all to himself. Ironically, the protagonist thinks that the girl can see, yet she can not, and vice versa.

Before Starting the Exam:

- Attend the college half an hour before the commencement of the examination.
- Collect the answer scripts of your allotted hall, count the scripts, if found accurate then sign on the Issue register.
- Enter the exam hall 15 minutes before commencement of the exam.
- Make sure that students do not carry anything besides admit card, registration card and pen.
- Make sure that students are seated as per their seat plan.
- Distribute the Answer Scripts.
- Distribute the question paper as soon as the starting bell rings.

During the time of Exam:

- Sign on the answer scripts after verification of the student's detail as per their admit and registration card.
- Count the number of students present in the exam hall/ Subject-wise.
- Make sure that students aren't adopting any unfair means during the examination time.
- Don't leave the exam hall, for any reason without the consent of your co-invigilator.
- Close the door 15 minutes before the end of the exam and ask the students not to leave their seats until allowed.

At the end of the exam:

- Collect all the Answer scripts serially as per seat plan as soon as the final bell rings. Count them and if found correct as per the number of students present in the examination hall, then open the door and leave the hall.
- Hand over the answer scripts to the ADC/UDA/LDA of the college. Please wait for re-counting and consent of the receiving employee.
